

Nadia K. Orton is a professional genealogist and family historian. She is a graduate of Duke University, with a double major in Political Science and African/African American Studies, and a Certificate in Markets and Management Science. She has researched her paternal family roots to 1610 in Tidewater, Virginia and maternal roots to 1770 in North Carolina. She has extensive family history in Richmond. One of her ancestors was sold in the city's slave market at Shockoe Bottom in 1834. Her paternal grandparents were the first African American homeowners on 36th Street in Church Hill. Her father was baptized at historic 31st Street Baptist Church, and he, along with his siblings, attended Nathaniel Bacon, Maggie Walker, Armstrong High, and Virginia Union University. She has ancestors buried in Oakwood and Evergreen cemeteries, and since 2013, has researched over 14,000 interments in Evergreen Cemetery. She maintains a blog, Sacred Ground, Sacred History.